“One of the best ways to help veterans is to connect them with fulfilling and meaningful careers, at organizations where they can develop their skills and grow into senior leaders,” said George Altman, managing director of VETS Indexes. “Our 2022 VETS Indexes Employer Awards recipients have demonstrated an outstanding commitment to veterans and the military community, through their efforts to recruit, support, and promote those who served our country bravely.”

As the most objective and comprehensive evaluation of veteran employers, the VETS Indexes Employer Awards have been featured on CNBC, as well as military-specific outlets, including Military.com. Our in-depth survey and recognition program analyzes employers’ policies, practices, and outcomes in detail, across the following 5 categories:

- ★ Veteran job candidate recruiting and hiring
- ★ Veteran employee development and retention
- ★ Veteran-inclusive company policies and culture
- ★ Support for members of the National Guard and Reserves
- ★ Military spouse/family support

Nearly 120 organizations submitted surveys to be considered for the awards. Responding organizations included companies large and small, government agencies and departments, nonprofit groups, colleges, and universities. Not all organizations that submitted surveys were recognized with awards. The VETS Indexes Employer Awards are reserved only for employers whose veteran-related efforts stand out from the pack, as the best.
